

House Passes Bill to Allow Death Penalty in Air Hijackings

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP).—Legislation to permit death penalties against air hijackers and terrorists and to suspend U.S. air service to countries that harbor them was passed by the House yesterday, 354-2.

The bill was sent to House-Senate conferees for compromise with a bill that would also establish an airport security force.

The House Commerce Committee chairman, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D., W.Va., who will head the House conferees, promised they would look favorably on a Senate provision to expand the use of metal-detecting devices at U.S. airports.

Both House and Senate bills would authorize the President to suspend air service with any country he determines to be harboring or encouraging hijackers or terrorism involving airliners. Service could be halted also to any third country that continues to maintain service with the offending country.

Both bills also would set a minimum 20-year prison sentence for the hijackers and give U.S.

juries the option of recommending death.

The legislation also would authorize the secretary of transportation to revoke, prohibit or limit operations in the United States of any airline from a country that does not have effective anti-hijacking security measures.

In another action, speaker Carl

Albert cast the deciding vote as the House passed a $235-million authorization bill to upgrade the nation's system of emergency medical services.

The rare vote by the Oklahoma Democrat—who usually votes only to break ties—enabled supporters to muster the required two-thirds majority and send the bill to the Senate.

Cut in Toll Foreseen

Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D., Fla., chief author of the bill, said it would provide faster and better emergency care for accident victims and could lead to a cut of 15,000 in the annual highway death toll.

"The time between when a victim first calls for help and that actual medical help is available," Rep. Rogers said, "is vital to the survival of that victim, and the aim of this legislation is to close that gap, to get medical care to the victim as soon as possible."

The Nixon administration supported the objective of the legislation but contended that it would generally duplicate existing authority.

Tokyo Pageant Bars Misses Israel, Lebanon

TOKYO, Oct. 3 (AP).—Organizers of the 1972 Miss International Beauty pageant, to be held Friday, expressed regret today at having to withdraw an invitation to Miss Israel but said public security is more important.

The organizers, fearful of Arab terrorist attacks following the murder of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics Sept. 5, canceled their invitations to Miss Israel and Miss Lebanon. Japanese leftists have been linked to the Arab terrorists, and three of them were involved in the massacre at Tel Aviv airport May 30 in which 26 persons were killed.

San Marino Aide to China

SAN MARINO, Oct. 3 (Reuters).—Foreign Minister Giancarlo Ghislanzoni of San Marino, the world's smallest and oldest republic, will pay an official, 10-day visit to China, it was announced here today. Mr. Ghislanzoni will leave for Peking tomorrow.

Scheel Starts Trip To UN and Peking

BONN, Oct. 3 (AP).—West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel flew out of Bonn today on a round-the-world trip taking him to the United Nations in New York and to Peking to open diplomatic relations.

In New York this week, Mr. Scheel plans to meet some 20 other foreign ministers to discuss the possibility of UN membership for both West Germany and Communist East Germany.

Bonn wants UN membership—and implied international recognition of East Germany—held back until the two Germanys complete current talks on normalizing relations with each other.

Biggest Bomb Explodes in Belfast

Britain Pulls Regiment From Ulster

BELFAST, Oct. 3 (UPI).—Britain today ordered from duty another army unit in Northern Ireland, reducing its troop strength here by 2,500 men. An army spokesman said that this did not mean that the crisis was easing.

The biggest bomb of the civil strife—the army estimated it at 800 pounds of home-made explosives—blew up outside a half-completed police station in Belfast. However, it caused little damage and no injuries.

The Queen's Own Highlanders Regiment was pulled out today from Ulster where 286 persons have been killed in three years of religious strife.

The withdrawal, British late last week, an army spokesman said. The withdrawal of British troops in Northern Ireland to "about 15,000 men," the spokesman said.

Across the province today, troops found two major caches of illegal arms and arrested three men. There were scattered shootings yesterday but an army spokesman said that most of the shots appeared to be random and no injuries were reported.

Both British units pulling out of Ulster were brought here specifically for "Operation Motorman," in which the army crushed "no go" enclaves set up by the outlawed Irish Republican Army. British forces then numbered 21,000 men.

Finished the job they were brought here to do, and now they're being returned to normal duty," an army spokesman said.

He cautioned that "no other significance" could be read into the pullout.

Other sources said that the still-critical security situation could only be worsened by yesterday's killing of an army intelligence agent patrolling in civilian dress.

The Marxist Official wing of the IRA, which has maintained a truce with the army for six months, called the killing a "murder squad" and threatened "merciless reprisals" against them.

Police today were trying to trace three men who assassinated Roman Catholic Edward Bonner in a Belfast club late last night.

No Known Motive

The gunman walked into the club, handed guests a glass of wine and shot Mr. Bonner through the head. Police said that they knew of no motive.

6 Pakistani POW's Slain In India Camp

NEW DELHI, Oct. 3 (Reuters).—Six Pakistani prisoners of war were shot dead today during a riot in a camp in the central Indian state of Madhya Pradesh, Defense Ministry officials said here.

At least 10 other prisoners were wounded, they said.

The government officials said security guards at the camp opened fire after prisoners attacked an Indian Army officer and his escort of armed policemen.

The prisoners, taken a day after a policeman and injured a deputy commander of the camp and another Indian military official, the reports said.

Inquiry to Be Held

Senior military officials have been sent to the area and a court of inquiry ordered.

The officials added that representatives of the International Committee of the Red Cross here had been informed of the incident and had been invited to visit the camp, whose location was not disclosed.

This is the second reported shooting incident in a POW camp since the war last December, from which India holds some 90,000 Pakistani prisoners. Twelve prisoners were killed in a camp in northern India last March.

India Upholds Death Penalty For Murderers

NEW DELHI, Oct. 3 (AP).—The Indian Supreme Court today upheld the constitutionality of the death penalty in murder cases.

The court dismissed an appeal by Jagdish Singh, convicted of murdering his wife because of a grudge. Singh's attorneys argued that the law abdicates its responsibility for setting guidelines by giving a judge the discretion of death or life imprisonment in any murder case.

They also argued that the death sentence ends a person's rights guaranteed under the Indian Constitution and that it violates the constitutional guarantee against discrimination because other convicted murderers are given life imprisonment.

The court agreed that the right to life is basic to all constitutional freedoms. But it said the death sentence is not unusual or unreasonable.

All Reported Dead in Soviet Airliner Crash

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (Reuters).—A Soviet Ilyushin-12 airliner crashed on an internal flight from Sochi to Moscow, killing everyone on board, usually reliable sources said today.

The four-engine turboprop aircraft crashed yesterday afternoon not long after leaving the Sochi Black Sea resort, their sources said.

Casualty figures were not immediately known. The Ilyushin-12 entered service in the late 1950s and was used on the Moscow-Sochi line, which is usually used for holiday resorts and flights between there and Moscow are often fully booked.

There was no way of checking reports of the crash.

Sochi is one of the most popular Soviet holiday resorts, and flights between there and Moscow are often fully booked.

Frantisek Dobias

FRAGUE, Oct. 3 (AP).—Frantisek Dobias, 65, dean of Prague's Comenius Theological Faculty, has died on a visit to West Germany, faculty sources said here today.

Dr. Dobias attended Lutheran Reformed Church talks in Strasbourg and, on his way back to Prague, was with a friend in Leisephe, West Germany. He died there yesterday after suffering a heart attack.

Dr. Dobias studied theology in the United States and in Zurich, Switzerland. He had been teaching social theology at Czechoslovakia's only Protestant faculty since 1960.

'Conviction' by Cellmates Leads Miami Man to Enter Guilty Plea

MIAMI, Oct. 3 (AP).—Theodore Roosevelt Washington, 22, refused to plead guilty to robbing his former boss of $4,000 until 30 of his cellmates held a mock trial and convicted him of the charge.

Washington appeared before the "jury" of 20 accused robbers and drug addicts Monday at the urging of his lawyer, Assistant Public Defender Thomas Morgan.

Mr. Morgan had tried unsuccessfully to persuade Washington to plead guilty to the charge of robbing the Polly Davis Cafeteria on April 9. He told his client that the state would agree to a four-year prison sentence.

The lawyer told Washington that, if convicted by a regular jury, he faced a possible life sentence.

"I couldn't talk to him; he wouldn't listen to me," Mr. Morgan said. "So finally I said, 'Look, I'm going to try the case right now in front of your cellmates. If they find you guilty, you plead to the charges. If they find you innocent, I'll try your case before a jury.'"

Twenty accused prisoners waiting for their own trials then listened to Mr. Morgan present the state's case against Washington and then the defense's side.

"It was a proper trial," Mr. Morgan said. "Washington even testified in his own behalf."

After Mr. Morgan presented his closing argument, the "jury" took less than a minute to "convict" Washington.

"It was the fastest verdict I ever had—eight seconds," Mr. Morgan said. "It was a big, fast, unanimous guilty. No one believed him."

Washington then walked into the courtroom of Criminal Court Judge Ellen Morphinos Rowe and entered a guilty plea.

Messmer Assails Leftist Foes, Pledges Anti-Corruption Stand

By James Goldsborough

PARIS, Oct. 3 (UPI)—Prime Minister Pierre Messmer today met the final session of the new legislature with a denunciation of the Communist-Socialist opposition and a pledge to fight against corruption in office.

Responding to the series of accusations brought against members of the UDR Gaullist party in recent months, Mr. Messmer told the National Assembly and the national television audience that "in a democracy, men in the government, in administration and in parliament must renounce any desire to become wealthy."

The opposition, meanwhile, induced a motion of censure against the government's policy on the day. The motion, which will be voted on this Thursday, with the parliament divided almost three to one by a majority, it has no chance of passing.

Mr. Messmer was given stirring ovations from the UDR Gaullist

Yemen's War Reported To Be Ended

BEIRUT, Oct. 3 (UPI)—A seven-day border war between North and Southern Yemen has ended, but Southern troops are still on Northern territory, a North Yemeni military spokesman said today.

In a dispatch from Sana'a, the capital of North Yemen, the Middle East News Agency quoted a spokesman as saying: "Fighting along the border between the areas of North and Southern Yemen has subsided." He said that the only action was intermittent fighting yesterday.

The spokesman said that northern troops evacuated the northern border town of Qataba, which they seized in a 15-hour air and ground attack Sunday.

But he added, "The Southern forces have now taken positions in the hills surrounding the town and North Yemeni territory."

"Despite the existing calm along the border, the situation still tense," he said.

The Marxist regime of Southern Yemen and its Northern neighbor have clashed periodically along their common border for the past two years.

Southern Yemen, formerly the British colony of Aden, has accused the Northerners of seeking to overthrow their regime and of harboring Southern political exiles.

The Northerners have accused Southern Yemen of frequent raids on their border townships.

The Beirut newspaper Al-Ansar said today that North Yemen is considering expelling Soviet advisers stationed there on the grounds that Soviet pilots flew the Aden fighter planes in the attack against Qataba.

Premier Mohsen al-Ainy, of North Yemen, earlier charged that "foreign pilots" flew Southern Yemen's planes, though he did not specify their nationality.

Arab news reports in the past have put at 50 the number of Soviet military technicians working with North Yemen's armed forces.

Conservatives, Socialists Gain In Finnish Vote

HELSINKI, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Social Democratic party and the Conservatives were the big winners in the Finnish communal elections Sunday and yesterday.

Today, with 95 percent of the vote counted, the Social Democrats had 27.2 percent—678,000—of the 2.5 million ballots cast; they thus bettered by more than 1 percent their showing in the last communal elections, in 1968, and by nearly 1.5 percent their performance in last January's parliamentary elections, when they won 55 of the 200 seats.

The Conservatives went up 10 percent to 18 percent with 180,000 votes in these elections.

The Rural party, which last January made a surprise gain of 8 parliamentary seats, fell this time to 5 percent of the vote and out. In general elections, this could have meant only 4 to 6 seats.

The party which gained most from the defeat of the Rural was the Center party, which regained its traditional backing of around 1 percent. The Communists, the Swedish party, the liberals and the Christian League in general held their ground.

The communal elections have no great significance in general politics, but experts think they reflect general tendencies. Although the Socialist parties gained slightly, the non-Socialists all have a 44.2 percent majority among 11,000 councilmen in 487 communes.

Spanish Police Seize Basque Nationalists

BILBAO, Spain, Oct. 3 (AP)—Police said today they have arrested eight Basque nationalists, including Jose Luis Arrese Ochoa, 25, described as the political leader of the ETA (Basque and Liberty) guerrilla organization in Vizcaya and Baza Provinces.

They said Mr. Arrese was the brains of a series of bombings and other terrorist activity in the Basque Country in July and August this year.

benches today, applause that seldom was heard during the three years that his predecessor, Jacques Chaban-Debras, addressed the assembly. The UDR, which has been rocked recently by political scandal, looks to former soldier Messmer to shine up the Gaullist image in time for spring elections, which probably will be in March.

It will take some doing. Even today, Gaullist Deputy Gerard Sibaud, accused by former public works official Gabriel Aranda of corruption, resigned from the party and another UDR deputy, Henri Modiano, is about to be asked by the party to resign because of alleged questionable business activities.

It was apparent from Mr. Messmer's 90-minute speech that the principal theme of the campaign would be anti-Communism.

Even with Polish Communist party leader Edward Gierk here on a state visit, Mr. Messmer did not hesitate to allude to the Warsaw Pact's invasion of Czechoslovakia and say that the nation must "choose between two politics," one which "suppresses liberties" and one which defends them.

He promised considerable social reform, including such pre-election measures as higher minimum wages, equal rights for women, amnesty on some prison sentences, an "ombudsman's office," greater participation by parliament in lawmaking, more governmental decentralization, and he hinted that he was in favor of lowering the voting age to 18.

Rivals' Proposals

Several of these measures have been called for repeatedly by other parties, notably the Independent Republicans of Valéry Giscard d'Estaing—the Gaullists' main ally and main majority rival—and the new "Reform" group led by Jean Lecanuet, a centrist, and Radical Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber. The Reformists especially have been campaigning on the theme of federalizing France so that all lines of power do not lead to Paris.

The UDR Gaullists, who clearly have been running scared lately and took considerable heart from Mr. Messmer's speech, also announced from party headquarters today that there was to be new "moral rigor" within the party.

Mr. Aranda, who has been relatively quiet since turning over the allegedly incriminating documents to French justice two weeks ago, said he was "very happy" that Mr. Sibaud had resigned and Mr. Modiano was being investigated.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Aranda, who has been indicted for theft of the public works documents, "that a procedure of purification is now under way..."

Mr. Gierk, who worked 11 years as a miner in France until he was deported in 1934 for helping to lead a strike, told the Poles "France, which has received us, is our second fatherland. But don't forget that you are of Polish origin and work for French-Polish friendship."

Mr. Gierk spoke while receiving a delegation of miners from Escaut, in northern France, where he had worked.

Mr. Gierk, on the second day of a five-day state visit, hailed Franco-Polish friendship at various official functions that took him to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier under the Arc de Triomphe and then to a Paris City Hall reception before a second talk with President Georges Pompidou, at the Elysée Palace.

In an editorial announcing that next Tuesday's edition would be its final one, the magazine cited economic difficulties as the reason for its closure. Its circulation stands at about 40,000.

Expected to Leave Moscow Soon

Warsaw Pact May Shift Its HQ to Lvov

By Murray Seeger

MOSCOW, Oct. 3.—The Soviet Union is expected to establish a new military headquarters for the Warsaw Pact powers of Eastern Europe in the ancient city of Lvov.

Before the end of the year, according to diplomatic sources, the strategically located Ukrainian city will be closed to Western visitors to help make its new status secure. The city now stands as an island in the middle of a large, closed security area.

The Soviet government is reported to be constructing a new headquarters building outside Lvov to house Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovskiy, the Warsaw Pact commander, and his staff. Their headquarters is now assumed to be in the Russian Penitagon, on Frunze Street in central Moscow.

Western experts here do not see the move of the headquarters as an escalation of military strength in Eastern Europe but more as an effort to strengthen the administrative efficiency of the command structure.

Close to Borders

By locating in Lvov, the headquarters would be close to the borders of four major satellite countries—Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

Political analysts said the presence of the headquarters so close to the western Soviet border could have a psychological effect on the satellites, reminding them of Soviet ability to invade, as the Russians did in Czechoslovakia four years ago to overthrow a liberal Communist regime.

The border location might also give the Eastern bloc nations a feeling of greater participation in the command operation than they have now.

A transportation center served by nine railroads, Lvov is about 300 highway miles and 700 air miles southwest of Moscow, and that much closer to direct ground confrontation with the forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

While Soviet authorities never discuss such military moves publicly, the use of Lvov as headquarters for the Soviet European defense system has been rumored in Moscow for several weeks.

Western experts recently received corroborating evidence which indicated that the move was to be made in the next few months.

"They seem to want to get their house in order before any negotiations start on mutual balanced force reductions," one source said.

The Warsaw Pact now has three regional headquarters—according to the authoritative Institute for Strategic Studies in London—located in the Polish city of Legnica, in Budapest, and in Zossen-Wunsdorf, outside East Berlin. There is also a contingent of Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia with headquarters at Milovice.

China, at UN, Belittles Big-2 Arms Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—China today ridiculed the U.S.-Soviet arms agreement and said it marked "the beginning of a new stage in the... nuclear arms race."

The Chinese deputy foreign minister, Chiao Kuan-hua, made the charge in the United Nations within hours of the Washington ceremony in which President Nixon and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union put the accord formally into force.

In the first Chinese policy speech to the General Assembly since Peking replaced Taiwan last year, Mr. Chiao repeated the Chinese positions on Vietnam, the Middle East and Bangladesh.

"The world is at the crossroads," he declared, "and so is the United Nations. If the United Nations is to regain its prestige and play its due role, it must... free itself from the manipulation and control by the big powers."

The White House ceremony

marked the final step on a treaty limiting defensive weapons. The formal treaty followed an executive accord signed by Mr. Nixon and Soviet leaders in their Moscow summit last May.

"These agreements," said Mr. Chiao, "only stipulate some limitation on the quantity of certain categories of nuclear weapons in the possession of the Soviet Union and the United States, but impose no limitation at all on their quality. Nor do they mention a single word about the destruction of nuclear weapons."

"This can by no means be regarded as a step toward nuclear disarmament."

"On the contrary, this marks the beginning of a new stage in the Soviet-U.S. nuclear arms race," Mr. Chiao said.

"Before the ink on the agreements had dried, the one hastened to test new-type nuclear weapons and the other expressed its intention to make a big increase immediately in its military expenditure. How can this be described as reducing the threat of

The policemen could have been sentenced to two years in jail.

Greek Claimant To Royal Birth Loses in Court

ATHENS, Oct. 3 (AP)—An Athenian woman who claimed that she is the illegitimate daughter of Greek Princess Irene and the former King Carol of Romania has been sentenced to two and a half years in prison for libel. She appealed the court's decision yesterday.

Maria Emmanuel, 50, a piano teacher and mother of three children, accused her alleged mother, Princess Irene, of ignoring her since her birth in order to avoid a royal scandal.

Princess Irene is the Duchess of Aosta, cousin of Britain's Duke of Edinburgh, sister of deceased Greek King George and Paul and aunt of self-exiled King Constantine. She lives in Florence.

There are few finer plays in the modern repertory than this overwhelming one by the misogynic Swede. A gripping duel of unsheathed, implacable hatred. It is emotional dynamite. Laurence Olivier has enjoyed a histrionic triumph as the megalomaniac artillery captain who, exiled to semi-retirement as guardian of a gloomy island fortress, lives out his last days in acrimonious desperation with his quarrelsome wife.

Judith Magre as his fury of a mate serves as an admirable foil, but François Maistre, though satisfactory, is miscast as the friend-enemy of the pair. The part requires a player who would introduce a clashing contrast, while, as it is, he seems a constant companion in the domestic inferno.

Yves Gasc's direction permits the play to play itself, a permission also granted by Dürrenmatt's unnecessary but not damaging rigids embroidery. "Play Strindberg" will hold you enthralled.

"Slag" by David Hare (now in a French translation by Gabriel Arout at the Théâtre Michel, is representative of a current-day brand of British dramas to which "After Haggerty," "Saved!" and "Early Morning" are all of them failures in France belong. It has to do with three schoolmarm, employed in a country institute of learning, who swear off men, row with one another and preach female independence, which here seems to be confused with socialism. It is uncertain whether the author is pleading the case of Brigitte Fossey, Lucienne Hamon and Tanya Lopert work like demons, their irrepressible energy extending to scene-shifting. If anyone could put this stuff over they could, but what a waste of talent, time and money! At one point two of them give the third a dousing in a bath tub, but they neglect to wash out her mouth with soap, an unfortunate oversight.

London has far better plays than this one for export. What of "Home" by David Storey, "Veterans," the 100-year-old "London Assurance," revived with such success, Simon Grey's "Wise Child" or even his "Dutch Uncle," all more likely to succeed in Paris than this tasteless, pointless slanging match.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (NYT).—The Metropolitan Museum has disclosed paintings by two 20th-century masters, Amedeo Modigliani and Juan Gris, and has plans for disposing of objects from all of the museum's 17 departments, it was learned yesterday. The news followed last Friday's disclosure that the Metropolitan had quietly sold major paintings by Douanier Rousseau and Vincent Van Gogh five months ago (JET, Oct. 3).

Thomas P. F. Hoving, the museum director, confirmed rumors that arrangements have been completed for an exchange transaction in which the Modigliani and the Gris will go to the Marlborough Gallery, which also purchased the Rousseau and the Van Gogh. In return, the museum will receive two works of art.

Hoving would neither confirm nor deny reports that the major one of the two works of art is by the late David Smith, an American sculptor, whose estate is represented by Marlborough. "We will expose it when we get a space large enough," Mr. Hoving said. "It needs a vista."

In addition to 12 impressionist paintings announced for sale at auction next month and 123 more paintings from all periods already slated for sale, Mr. Hoving said the museum has plans to dispose of another 100 American paintings at auction, 38 tapestries by sale, a quantity of medieval material by exchange with a foreign country, and other objects that could not be listed for fear of disrupting "delicate negotiations" in various departments.

He said that the museum was about to "reach very heavily" to "draw out the collections in order to increase quality. "We are unable to increase numerically because of space. We are facing up to the problem of quality rather than giving it lip service," he insisted.

"There will be mistakes in disposing, but they will not be as serious as mistakes in not getting," Mr. Hoving said, pointing out that the market in old masters was more and more restricted. "We have had an exhibition in about a year and a half showing what we have gained as well as our values. The exhibition will illustrate the complexity of the situation."

Entertainment in New York:

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (IHT).—
This is how critics rate new productions on and Off-Broadway:

"Berlin to Broadway With Kurt Weill," a chronological retrospective of Weill's music, linked by co-producer Gene Lerner's text to the facts of Weill's life, got fair reviews from critics.

Clive Barnes, The New York Times, said: "Go to the Theater to see the revelation of the full greatness of Weill and you will certainly be disappointed. But go expecting a sweet and our evening with Broadway's greatest composer ever and you will get your money's worth."

William Glover, The Associated Press: "Some elaborate production efforts have been entrusted to some lightweight singers. It would be well if the sponsors had waited while to honor Weill with more suitable talents."

The singers in the cast are Margery Cohen, Judy Lander, Merry Lanning, and Hal Watters.

Ken Kercheval narrated under Donald Saddler's direction.

"Sleuth," Anthony Shaffer's long-running detective drama at the Music Box Theater, is still going strong. Clive Barnes reports in The Times. "It is possible that when 'Sluth' was penny-wright new it did have a little more impact, but I am confident that anyone meeting the intricacies of Mr. Shaffer's fevered imagination for the first time will not be disappointed. This is most happily entertaining and intriguing play." Patrick Macnee heads the present cast, with Andrew Wyke and Brian Murray.

"The School for Scandal," a play by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, directed by Gerald Freedman, opened the first season of plays in repertory at the Good Shepherd-Faith Church at Lincoln Center. Staged by the City Center Acting Company, the show won praise from The Times reviewer Clive Barnes: "The performance is at times too brisk and chirpy, and perhaps too waggish. But Mr. Freedman does achieve the right classic spirit."

without sacrificing any of the comedy's fun and pure gaiety. Among the able and personable young actors Patti LuPone, Kevin Kline, and David Ogden Stiers turn in three really outstanding performances."

"Lunapark," staged by the theatre Laboratoire Vicinal of Belgium at the La Mama Theater, "is even less verbal than Tramp," as staged earlier in the season by the Belgian group; Mel Gussow writes in The Times. The work of the Vicinal "interests me, but it does not mean to suggest that theirs is a preferred way to make theater. It is simply a different way, and if you drop preconceptions about what theater is supposed to be, you may surprise you with its theatricality."

Lolich Strikes Out 15

Detroit Takes 1st From Boston

By Murray Chass

DETROIT, Oct. 3 (UPI)—The Detroit Tigers' first victory in the Eastern Division championship of the American League.

The triumph enabled Detroit to place the Red Sox in first place in a half-game lead, and put the Tigers in the position where they could end the most hectic race in the major leagues this season.

If, however, the Red Sox win tonight with Luis Tiant, their 10-1 pitcher, the title then could be decided on Wednesday in the final game of the season.

Lolich, the Tigers' No. 1 pitcher, struck the 61,518 fans and won his 22d game by stopping the Red Sox on six hits and striking out 15.

Five of the strike-outs came in the first four innings where the Red Sox had five runners on base, two of them in third.

As crucial as Lolich's strike-outs was a base-running blunder by Yastrzemski in the third inning. By going for a triple with Aparicio standing at third, Yastrzemski was out and helped take the Red Sox out of a potentially big inning.

With Tommy Harper at third and Aparicio at first on one-out singles, Yastrzemski lined the ball over Mickey Stanley's head in center field. Harper trotted across, tying the game, 1-1, and it appeared as if Aparicio also would score easily.

But the Venezuelan tripped rounding third and fell down, forcing him to go back to third instead of heading home. Failure to notice the impending traffic problem, Yastrzemski ripped around second and roared into third.

For a few seconds, both runners stood on the base, appearing helpless and frozen. It looked like a scene from a comic strip, in which Mutt would say to Jeff, "Oh, oh what do we do now?"

Then, Yastrzemski half-heartedly started back toward second, but before he retreated more than a few feet, Rodriguez tagged him out.

"I stumbled on the base and almost went down," said Aparicio, who suffered two large gasps just above his right knee in the fall. "I tried to stay up but when I did that, I got to the grass and slipped and fell."

"If I was aware of him falling," Yastrzemski said, "I would've stopped."

Thus, instead of having runners at second and third and one out, the Red Sox had a runner at third and two out. Lolich then made it three out by throwing a third strike past Reggie Smith for the second time.

Kalene and Rodriguez were able to trot around the bases when they socked home runs off John Curtis in the first and fifth innings.

Kalene's homer, his third in three days, put the Tigers ahead, 1-0, and Rodriguez's blast, his second in two days, sent them in front, 2-1. Rodriguez added a run-scoring single in the sixth after Kalene singled and Willie Horton walked.

The first time Smith struck out was in the first inning when the Red Sox had runners at first and second and one out. Lolich followed that strike-out with another, getting Reggie Smith for the first out.

Smith Falls

Smith, one of Boston's most productive hitters who entered the game hitless in 12 times at bat against Lolich this season, also pulled out with a runner at first and two out in the fifth.

Little wonder that when someone asked him before the game how he had fared against Lolich this season he grimaced and replied: "Not well at all."

The Red Sox, in general, did fairly well against Lolich tonight until they tried to bring home the winning run in the sixth. Aside from the innings in which Smith failed to produce, the Red Sox threatened several other times.

In the fourth, for instance, Petroselli walked and raced to third on Dwight Evans's one-out single. But Lolich struck out Doug Griffin and Curtis, Evans walked with two out in the sixth, and Griffin struck out for the third time.

In the seventh, Phil Gagliano led off with a pinch single, but Tommy Harper struck out, Aparicio popped up and Yastrzemski struck out for the second straight time.

In the eighth, Rodriguez singled home another run, then his third run batted in of the night, after Kalene again led off with a single.

Expos' Stoneman No-Hits the Mets

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 (UPI)—Right-hander Bill Stoneman last night came up with the second no-hit performance of his career but admitted afterward that it wasn't as hard as the first one.

In the first game of a double-header, the Montreal Expos pitcher blanked the New York Mets 7-0, the same identical score as when he threw a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies April 17, 1969.

The Mets won the second game last night, 3-1.

"It was hard for me to throw that no-hitter in '69 because I had hardly pitched in the majors and I didn't know the Phillies batters then," Stoneman, 28, said.

"I'm a different pitcher and I guess I know these Mets batters better than I knew the ones I faced in 1969 and that way it's easier to pitch," added Stoneman.

"Even though I threw a no-hitter, I have to admit that I had some better pitching performances earlier this season," said Stoneman.

Bill Stoneman ... 2d no-hitter.

Stoneman had in his glove but dropped. He then got Ted Martinez to hit into a fielder's choice and struck out Dave Marshall to end the inning. He also gave up seven walks while striking out nine.

Former Met Ken Singleton drove in two runs while Ron Farkis contacted for a home run. Another former Met assisted on the final out of the game. With rookie Dave Schneck on base after being walked, Bahr hit a hard bouncer to Tim Lincecum at shortstop.

"I got nervous," said the excited Stoneman. "I thought for sure the ball was going to bounce over Farkis' head but I was sure glad to see him jump up and throw it to second for the force-out. It was the same for me in '69 when Deron Johnson ended that other no-hitter with a sharp grounder to my shortstop, Henry Wills," said Stoneman. Asked if he was happy in finishing the season with a losing record but with a no-hitter, Stoneman said: "I'm pleased with my performance this year. My record may not show it but my earned run average has gone down."

Expos management celebrated the no-hitter by inviting all 7,184 fans back-free of charge—for either tonight's doubleheader or tomorrow night's finale.

Stoneman did not have enough time to let the excitement catch up with him as he now faces a 18-day hitch in the U.S. Army as he continues to serve his reserve duty in Burlington, Vt.

Wajima Retains Fight Crown

TOKYO, Oct. 3 (Reuters)—Kohji Wajima of Japan retained his world junior-middlerweight boxing title here tonight when he knocked out Trinidad challenger Matt Donovan in the third round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

Donovan was hit by a series of left hooks to the head which sent him sprawling to the canvas for the count after 53 seconds of the third round.

Wajima, a former truck driver who took up professional boxing when he was 23, fought in the same unorthodox crouching, leaping style that brought him the world title a year ago.

Judge Says Hull Can Practice With WHA Club

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (UPI)—A judge has given Bobby Hull permission to practice with the Winnipeg Jets but extended to Oct. 8 a temporary restraining order barring him from playing with any team other than the Chicago Black Hawks.

The ruling by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Francis T. Delaney prevents Hull from engaging in promotional activities with the Winnipeg club of the new World Hockey Association. Delaney eventually will rule on whether Hull's $2.75-million contract to play with the Jets violated his contract with the Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.
